

January 12, 1976

This calendar will be placed on your desk later this afternoon or early in the morning. Along with this I am suggesting that we convene every Monday morning, that we meet, at 9:30. Every other morning that we are in session, that we meet, we will convene at 9 o'clock. We will recess as close as is humanly possible, as we do, at 12 o'clock, and reconvene at 1:30, after we're in all day session, again after Thursday. Hopefully, all committees can meet at 1:30, hopefully we will adjourn approximately 4:30 every afternoon, unless we see a problem of certain bills that certain legislators would like to have enacted, or the majority of this body would like to have enacted. Then we may, at that time, make a determination whether we proceed beyond 4:30.

I am going to have this on your desk later this evening or in the morning. I would welcome any suggestions you may have, or any ideas that you may have along this line. If we proceed on this matter and do all our Final Reading of bills that are questionable, of vetos, and have them on the 24th day of March, we can continue right straight along through to the 31st and complete our work and adjourn sine die on March 31.

CLERK: Mr. President, I have one new bill. Read title to LB 738. That's all, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT: Is that all? Do you have a motion to adjourn, Mr. Speaker? Senator Fitzgerald, do you want to be recognized?

CLERK: Mr. President, I move we adjourn till 9 o'clock. I'm sorry, one more bill, Mr. President. LB 739, read title.

PRESIDENT: There's a motion to adjourn until 9 in the morning. All those in favor say aye, contrary say nay. We are adjourned.

ADJOURNED.
